POETRY.

THE BOAT OF LIFE.

BY THOMAS MOORE.

Let's take this world as some wide scene
Through which, in frail and buoyant boat,
With skies now rude, and now serene,
Together thou and I must float;
Beholding oft, on either shore,
Bright spots where we should love to stay;
But Time plies swift his flying oar,
And on we speed—away, away.

Should chilling winds and rain come on,
We'll raise our awning 'gainst the shower—
Sit closer till the storm is gone,
And smiling wait a sunnier hour.
And if that sunnier hour should shine,
We'll know its brightness cannot stay,
And, happy while 'tis thine and mine,
Complain not when it fades away.

Thus reach we both, at last, that fall
Down which life's current all must go—
The dark, the brilliant, destined all
To sink into the void below;
Nor e'en that hour shall want its charms,
If side by side still fond we keep,
And calmly in each other's arms
Together linked go down to sleep.

PLEASURE.

What are riches, glory, pride,
Laurel-wreath, or jewelled crown,
When upon life's troubled tide,
Weary, way-worn man goes down:—
What are mankind's dearest pleasures,
But the fitful meteor's gleam?—
What his grandeur?—what his treasures;
Moonlight on a mountain stream.

Soon we quit life's busy path,
For the silence of the grave,—
Soon the banner, mighty death,
O'er the proudest head shall wave,—
Soon the dweller in the hall,
And the child of peasant birth,
Like the forest leaves shall fall,
Mingling with their mother earth.

Prince and peasant, priest and king—
Like the little flowers that blush
On the bosom of the spring,
Time's unsparing foot shall crush.
What! O what is pleasure then!
Can it hush our woes to sleep?
Can it still the throb of pain
Rankling in the bosom deep?

When the brightest cloud that swims,
Vision-like, across the sky,
Stays the summer's burning beams,
As it floats unheeded by:
Then shall glittering gems of earth
Bid our sorrows cease to flow—
To the joyous laugh of mirth,
Chang the thrilling pang of woe.

EPITHALAMIUM.

BY J. G. C. BRAINARD.

I saw two clouds at morning,
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one:
I thought that morning cloud was blest,
It moved so sweetly to the West.

I saw two summer currents,
Flow smoothly to their meeting,
And join their course with silent force,
In peace each other greeting:
Calm was their course, through banks of green,
While dimp'ling eddies play'd between.

Such be your gentle motion,
Till life's last pulse shall beat;
Like summer's beam, and summer's stream,
Float on in joy to meet
A calmer sea, where storms shall cease—
A purer sky, where all is peace.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Honeymoon Extraordinary.

Lovers are an eccentric people. Their ways too, are oftentimes curiously comic. They do a thousand odd things, and occasionally resort to such unheard of expedients to accomplish their object that the reality is frequently more romantic than fiction.

So it was with a young couple we heard of Saturday. She was sweet seventeen, and he, a youth of eighteen. They fell in love—deep—inextricably and unfathomably deep. Now for other ills that flesh is heir to, Pharmacy has managed to find some mode of alleviation. Cologne is good for a headache, Dalley's Compound soothes a burn, and, cat-nip tea's the sovereignest thing on earth for a cold. But for love—deep, agonizing and excruciating love, there is no cure but matrimony. So our couple believed, and upon this belief, they wished to act. But alas! when did the course of true love ever run smooth, from the days of Pyramus and Thisby down to the present time? Where the woes of lovers generally end, all their woes began. Papa and mamma would not consent—were inexorable. Worse than that, the unsympathizing clerks of our courts would issue no license, and the bans seemed likely to be abandoned.

Not so with them however. Where there's a will there's a way; and so the event proved.—They very coolly got some blankets and quilts—tucked them under their arms—went over to Newport and having got married there, they camped out on the hills in the neighborhood for four days and nights!!

Brightly careered the moon in the heavens—twinklingly shone the stars from above—calmly rolled the silver waves of the Ohio—and green grew the grass upon the hill side, while sweetly and lovingly these "babes in the woods" rested in their flight to enjoy a calm repose.

There, their papas and mammas found them. They took them home, gave them some supper, and—here the story ends.—Cin. Atlas.

Clever Evasion.—The late Rev. Daniel Isaac was both a great wag and a great smoker. "Ah! there you are," cried a lady who surprised him one day with a pipe in his mouth, "at your idol again!" "Yes, madam," replied he, coolly, "burning it."

From the Chicago Tribune.

A bit of Romance.

It is a trite, but at the same time, true remark, that the real incidents of life constantly occurring around us, possess a far more romantic interest than the fanciful ones conceived in the teeming brain of the novelist. Of this the following o'er true tale, told us in brief by the stewart of the packet boat Louisiana, on Saturday, will furnish an illustration:

Some ten years ago, as our readers will remember, there was what was termed a "rebellion" in Canada, and after the "patriots" were subdued, some were summarily executed, and a portion were banished for a long term of years, to Australia. Most of these latter were men of families, from which they were torn without mercy, to expiate in a far distant clime, by imprisonment and hard labor, the crime of having failed in their attempt to rid their country of the evils of misgovernment. We think they acted very unwisely in proceeding to the extremes they did, but this point we will not stop to consider. With one of these expatriated men our tale has chiefly to do.

For seven or eight years he had borne the hardships of a lonely captivity, hopeless of ever seeing home or friends again, when a general amnesty was proclaimed by the British government in regard to all, with one or two exceptions, of those who had been concerned in the rebellion. Our hero was now at liberty, and his first thought was to seek his home. But he had no means to pay his passage there, and he accordingly shipped on board a whaling vessel, which at the end of two years more, landed him on his native shores.

Wife, children, and friends filled his thoughts, and he hastened on to his old residence in Canada. Every thing remained as it had been—friends and neighbors greeted him as he passed along—but how his heart sunk within him to find the homestead deserted, and to learn that his wife had been married two years to another, supposing the husband of her youth to be dead. She and her new found mate had left that part of the country and settled somewhere in Illinois.

The poor man felt desolate, indeed, and he determined to see, and if possible reclaim his wife and children. After weary travel and many inquiries he traced them to Knox county, Illinois, where they were comfortably settled in their new home. There he presented himself. [illegible] could not have been more surprised or pained to see an apparition from the grave, for she had long considered him as dead. The new husband, too, was rather disagreeably surprised to see before him a claimant for his wife. What should be done? The first husband was anxious to obtain the lady, the second was disinclined to give her up, looking upon his claim as good.

They were reasonable people all around. The original claimant remained in the neighborhood a couple of weeks, during which time the matter was frankly talked over. At last the rivals came to the very just and rational conclusion that the lady was the proper person to make a final decision of the question, and to her it was mutually agreed to refer it, giving her time to consider it in all its bearings.

What more perplexing position could a woman be placed in than that? Here were two men with almost equal claims upon her affection. One was the father of all her children but one, the companion of her youth—the other, bound to her heart by near and sacred ties, and by the mutual love they bore an infant that had been born to them. She could not for a time decide—what true-hearted woman could? A tumult of thoughts and emotions filled her heart, alternately swaying her from side to side. Thus the conflict lasted for several days, during which time she was enabled to look clearly into her own heart, and at last she was ready for a decision.

Which could she choose but the man around whom was twined the tendrils of a first and strong affection—to whom she had given the first offerings of her heart? The needle may vibrate for a time, but it points at last with unfailing constancy to the never setting star of the north; and in like manner, the heart of a true woman, having in the universe but one fitting mate, will, after all vicissitudes, turn lovingly to the sunny warmth of "first—only love."

A disposition of the youngest child must now be made, and it was mutually agreed by the two men, that, as it could not be deprived of a mother's care, the first husband should take it with the other children, to be restored to the father at some future time. The re-united family now made preparations to go to a new home; and so great was the interest excited in the neighborhood by this singular affair, that as many as a hundred and fifty persons from the neighborhood were present to witness their departure. On Saturday last they came up on the packet Louisiana, on their way to Michigan, where they will take up their residence.

We naturally sympathize with the first husband to whom wife and children are restored, but who does not feel for the bereavement of the second?

The Cannon taken from the British in the battle of Bennington, August 16, 1777 were delivered to the authorities of Vermont on the 10th instant, in accordance with a resolution passed last month by Congress. These cannon have lain in the United States Arsenal as trophies for seventy-one years. They will be received at Bennington on the 16th inst., the anniversary of the battle, by a military and civic procession. The Governor of the State is to be present on the occasion.

The Copper Region--Singular Discovery.

A correspondent of the Buffalo Express, writing under date of June 14, from Ontanagan, Lake Superior, says:

"Mr. Knapp, of the Vulcan Mining Company, has lately made some very singular discoveries here in working one of the veins which he has lately found. He worked into an old cave which has been excavated centuries ago. This led them to look for other works of the same sort, and they have found a number of sinks in the earth which they have traced a long distance. By digging into those sinks, they find them to have been made by the hand of man. It appears that the ancient miners went on a different principle from what they do at the present time. The greatest depth yet found in these holes is thirty feet—after getting down to a certain depth, they drifted along the vein, making an open cut.—These cuts have been filled nearly to a level by the accumulation of soil, and we find trees of the largest growth standing in this gutter; and also find that trees of a very large growth have grown up and died, and decayed many years since; in the same places there are now standing trees of over three hundred years growth. Last week they dug down into a new place, and about twelve feet below the surface found a mass of copper that will weigh from eight to ten tons. This mass was buried in ashes, and it appears they could not handle it, and had no means of cutting it, and probably built fire to melt or separate the rock from it, which might be done by heating, and then dashing on cold water. This piece of copper is as pure and clean as a new cent, the upper surface has been pounded clear and smooth. It appears that this mass of copper was taken from the bottom of a shaft, at the depth of about thirty feet. In sinking this shaft from where the mass now lies, they followed the course of the vein, which pitches considerably; this enabled them to raise it as far as the hole came up with a slant. At the bottom of the shaft they found skids of black oak, from eight to twelve inches in diameter—these sticks were charred through, as if burnt; they found large wooden wedges in the same situation. In this shaft they found a miner's gad and a narrow chisel made of copper. I do not know whether these copper tools are tempered or not, but their make displays good workmanship. They have taken out more than a ton of cobble stones, which have been used as mauls, with a score cut around the centre, and looks as if this score was cut for the purpose of putting a withe round for a handle. The Chippewa Indians all say that this work was never done by Indians. This discovery will lead to a new method of finding veins in this country, and may be of great benefit to some. I suppose they will keep finding new wonders for some time yet, as it is but a short time since they first found the old mine. There is copper here in abundance, and I think people will begin to dig it in a few years. Mr. Knapp has found considerable silver during the past winter. B."

A Tragedy.

On last Saturday night, at Mandeville, on the other side of the Lake Pontchartrain, an Indian murdered an Indian, by stabbing him with a large knife. A son of the murdered man immediately gave information to two of the tribe, and they took the offender into custody. On Sunday morning, a court composed of ten Indians was formed to hear the case and pass sentence. The proofs were most conclusive, and the prisoner was at once condemned to death. Whereupon he was measured, his grave marked out, and he himself set to work digging it. When the grave was finished, a rifle was placed in the hands of the murdered Indian's son, for the purpose of doing the execution. At the first shot death was not produced; the second shot also took effect, but did not kill; and the stoical violater of innocent life fell into his grave, and was there finally killed and covered with earth as he lay. The court that had condemned him, then took their own instrument of justice in custody, and started off for the purpose of delivering him to the civil authorities at Covington, to obtain his discharge as an innocent man. This relation was personally received from two gentlemen of this city, who were at Mandeville at the time, and who, although they did not see the whole of the drama, obtained all the particulars from persons present during the trial and execution.—N. O. Crescent, 8th.

Honesty vs. Meanness.—The following incident, related by a New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer presents a striking contrast between magnanimity and soulless selfishness.

A few days since, a porter in a store on C[illegible] street, a poor Irishman, with a salary of seven dollars a week, and a large family dependent on him for support, found a large roll of bank bills.—An hour or two afterwards a man came into the store in a state of great excitement and said that he was ruined, wholly and hopelessly ruined. He had drawn, he said, ten thousand dollars that forenoon from one of the city banks, and had lost every dollar of it somehow.—The porter heard the conversation, and stepping up to him, said: 'Sir, do not be afraid, here is your money. I found it, here it is.'

The roll of bills was counted and found all right, and what do you suppose the fellow then did? He deliberately deposited the money in his breeches pocket and walked out without so much as a 'thank you' to the poor but honest porter. This is a literal fact.

The Great Lakes.

Professor Drake, of Cincinnati, has been making some observations on our inland seas, and gives the result of them to the public. The chain of lakes extends over nearly eight and a half degrees of longitude in length. The extent of their surface is estimated at ninety-three thousand square miles; and the area of country drained by them is computed at 400,000 square miles. Their relative sizes are as follows:

Ontario, 5,300 square miles; Erie, 9,600; St. Clair, 360; Huron, 20,400; Michigan, 24,400; Superior, 22,000.

The average depth of water in the different lakes is a question upon which there is no certain information. Authorities differ. Dr. Drake gives it as follows—St. Clair, 20 feet; Erie, 84; Ontario, 500; Superior, 900; Huron and Michigan, 1,090.

In our standard works, Lake Erie is usually stated to have a depth of about 120 feet. The deepest soundings have been made in Lake Huron. Off Saginaw Bay 1,800 feet of line have been sent down without finding bottom.

The altitude of these lakes varies step by step from Ontario to Superior. Lake Ontario is 232 feet above the tide water of the St. Lawrence. Erie is 333 feet above Ontario, and 565 feet above the tide water at Albany. St. Clair is six feet higher than Erie; Huron and Michigan are thirteen feet above St. Clair, and Superior lies forty feet above them.—This shows the curious fact that while the surface of the Huron is 684 feet above the level of the ocean, its bottom at Saginaw Bay is more than 1,100 feet below the same level.

The waters of these lakes, with the exception of Erie and St. Clair, are remarkable for their transparency and delicious flavor. Of lake Huron Professor Drake ascertained that the water at the surface, and two hundred feet below at the same place, indicated precisely the same temperature, namely, fifty-six degrees. His explanation of this fact is this: the water is so pure that the rays of the sun meet with no solid matter in suspension to arrest and retain the heat.

Immigration.

The following extract from the Patent Office Report for 1847, will give some idea of the immense accession which is yearly made to the population of this country through immigration:

The emigration from Europe has been far beyond what it ever was before. By the principal ports to the Secretary of State, the number of persons of this character arriving during the year ending September 30, 1847, is stated to be 233,798, an increase of not less than 82,134 in one year. It is very probable that the addition of others at the smaller ports, and those entering our country by the way of Canada, would swell the aggregate to not less than 300,000, and probably more. The following table presents the comparison, in this respect, of the last two years:

For the year ending Sept. 30.	1846.	1847.	Increase.
New York,	98,833	145,830	46,967
Boston,	14,079	20,745	6,666
Philadelphia,	7,237	14,763	7,526
Baltimore,	9,327	12,018	2,691
New Orleans,	22,148	40,442	18,294
	151,664	233,798	82,134

The ratio for the months since September 30, for the whole time, has probably rather increased than diminished, though we notice that, as to the port of New York, it is stated there has been a slight falling off. In that port, however, in one of the months since that at which the enumeration above given closed, we have seen it stated that the persons thus arriving amounted to about 17,000.

A portion of this emigration still lingers in the Atlantic cities, and numbers are employed on the various railroads and works of public improvement still in progress. But the vastly greater number direct their way to the West. A single fact or two shows the influx of population from this source in the North-western States. In general, the current flows on unobserved, but now and then some incident transpires which calls the attention to its ever widening tide. In the catastrophes which have occurred on the lakes and rivers of the West, it is found that a large proportion of the passengers moving westward are foreign immigrants. Thus, in the case of the steamer Phœnix, lost by fire recently, out of three hundred passengers, not less than about two hundred are said to have belonged to this class. This was the fact, too, in the wreck of the Talisman on her way up the Mississippi. A very large proportion of the passengers were Germans. The Norwegians alone in Wisconsin are said to number not less than 15,000, and many thousands more are expected soon; 8,000 more are stated to occupy the northern portions of Illinois. From 50,000 to 100,000 Germans, it has been mentioned, on what appears to be good authority, are preparing to embark for the United States in the course of another year.

A new place for a wedding was hit upon, the other day, by a gentleman and lady from New England: we mean the Falls of Niagara! not in the comfortable hotels on shore, but actually in the more romantic, though real, bona fide, torrent itself. Mr. James S. Kimball, of Stafford, Vt., and Mis Clara Partridge, of Templeton, Mass., being on their way to Missouri as teachers, and taking a pleasure excursion on board the "Maid of the Mist," the snug little craft that stems the Niagara, concluded to join their fortunes for the future amidst the ascending spray, with the thunders of the mighty cataract as the wedding hymn. The Rev. Mr. Callahan performed the service; and as the little steamer majestically ploughed her way through the foaming torrent, the silken bands were assumed. (We have seen it stated, by the way, that the gentleman and lady being obliged to leave for the West in a hurry, and having been engaged for some time, determined to be married en route, rather than wait to be "published" according to the laws, ceremonies and Puritan decrees of their native New England. If so, who can blame them?)

The Last Night in the Senate.

The following further description of the scenes of the night, which we take from the Philadelphia Bulletin, will interest and amuse the reader:

Exciting scenes in the Senate Chamber ---Cheers in the galleries for Henry Clay---Flare up between Benton and Butler---The lie given, &c., &c.

We have received a telegraphic despatch from Washington, giving the details of by far the most extraordinary scenes that have ever transpired in the United States Senate. Subjoined is the despatch:

Sunday Morning, 9 o'clock.

This has been a weary night for reporters and legislators, and were it not for the intensely exciting scenes that have taken place in the Senate, the fatigue could scarcely have been borne. The Oregon bill, which passed in the same shape as originally adopted in the House, was the great bone of contention. Now for scene first.

About three o'clock, when General Houston was on the floor discussing the Oregon bill, he remarked, in reference to the Missouri compromise, that Mr. Clay, for the act, concluding as it did the gloomy rupture between the North and the South, deserved a monument of perpetual adamant, to stand in the rotunda hall of the Capitol, for future posterity to gaze upon, and remember in an hour of similar trial. He had scarcely uttered those words, amidst the most breathless silence, when, as if moved by a common thrill of sympathy, a hundred voices resounded in the galleries, accompanied by a clapping of hands which seemed to shake the very building.

The second scene was of quite an opposite character. Mr. Foote had just concluded his remarks. But it being evident that the Oregon bill, with the ordinance of 1787, would pass, unless a "feeling" was immediately got up upon some distracting question, Mr. Butler, of South Carolina, sprang to his feet and demanded that the doors be closed for executive session, as he had matter for secret session, materially affecting the character of a Senator then present.—Turning to Mr. Benton, "there," he said, "is the man I allude to."

And he immediately read an extract from the New York Herald, showing that Mr. B. had been guilty of making public a portion of the proceedings consequent upon the nomination of General Kearney to brevet.

Mr. Benton, with rage depicted in ev- [illegible] from his chair. He could scarcely speak, from excessive passion. Turning to Mr. Butler, he exclaimed in his shrillest tones—

"It is a lie, sir!"
(Order—order.)
"A lie in his throat!"
(Rap—rap—rap.)
"The basest of lies!"
(Half the Senators on their feet.)
"Here and elsewhere I will make him take—
(Voice from the gallery—go it, "Old Bullion!") back—(order—order) the lie, sir!" (rap, rap, rap.)

A dozen Senators on their feet, gesticulating in dumb show.

Mr. Hale—Mr. President, I rise—(several voices—"sit down.") The free and unbought people of New Hampshire (with a savage scowl) are not to be—("oh, ah"—rap, rap.)

Mr. Webster—Standing upon the broad platform, Mr. President, of the con—(order, order.)

Mr. Sturgeon---(pettishly) It's impossible to sleep in such a place.

Mr. Cameron---Mr. President, such a ding dong.

Mr. Allen---I rise to a question of order---did the gentleman from Pennsylvania apply the word "gong" to me?

Mr. Cameron---The gentleman from Ohio is laboring under a misapprehension. I said dong, and not gong.

These were mere by scenes---the great actors of the great comedy, tragedy or face, Messrs. Benton and Butler---not only being the observed of all observers, but the talk of all talkers.

After the passage of the Oregon bill, the excitement of the southern Senators became extreme---Calhoun, Butler, and others declaring---so it is rumored---that they would resign their seats on Monday.

Up to the time of closing this despatch, the Benton and Butler difficulty is the all engrossing topic of conversation.---Pistols and coffee are talked of. The latter would be quite acceptable just now.

The old Bachelor's Register.

At sixteen years, incipient palipitations are manifested towards the young ladies.

17, Blushing and confusion occur in conversing with them.

18, Confidence in conversing with them is increased.

19, Is angry, if treated by them as a boy.

20, Betrays great consciousness of his own charms and manliness.

21, A looking glass becomes indispensable in his room.

22, Insufferable puppyism exhibited.

23, Thinks no woman good enough for him.

24, Is caught unawares by the snares of Cupid.

25, The connection broken off, from self-conceit on his part.

26, Conducts himself with airs of superiority towards her.

27, Pays his addresses to another lady, not without hope of mortifying the first.

"Bill, where has Joe gone to?" "I don't know, I guess he's in the kitchen, puttin the cat in the tea-kettle. He has just cut her ears off."

Getting "High."

We find the following description of how a man feels when he's "happy," going the rounds of the papers. We hope none of our readers have ever tested by actual experience the truth of the description; but if they have, they will perhaps know that it is no fiction:

"Never was drunk but once in my life," said a chap in my hearing "and never mean to be again. The street seemed to be very steep and I lifted my feet every step as if I was getting up stairs. Several cart wheels were making revolutions in my brains and, at one time I fancied my head was a large carving and turning establishment, the lathes of which I was keeping in motion with my own feet. I couldn't conceive what was the reason the town had turned into such an enormous hill; and what made it worse, was, that it seemed all the time growing higher and higher, and threatened to pitch over me. Stop, stop! said I, I'll head this old hill yet, or at least it shall not head me. I turned round to go down and get at the bottom; tell me if it didn't turn right round with me, heading me all the time, presenting the high bluff in front of me. Well, sure enough, the ground flew up and sruck me in the forehead; and as soon as the stars cleared away, I commenced climbing with my hands and knees. The next thing I saw was a large brick house coming full split round a corner, and I believe it ran right over me, for I don't remember any more.

Respect to Age.

There is a story of an occurrence at Athens, during the celebration of games in honor of a god, illustrative of the respect paid by the Lacedæmonians to old age. The seats in the theatre were crowded, and an old man entering late, found no seat. Some young men beckoned him towards them, and offered him a seat; but as he advanced they sat closer together, making the vacant seat farther along, and continued to do so as he approached it, so as to excite the laughter of the audience. There were departments of the theatre devoted to foreigners, and as the old man approached the seats of the Lacedæmonians, they all arose. The Athenians, with characteristic impetuosity, cheered their courteous neighbors with tremendous applause, and the old man turning round, remarked: "The Athenians know the right, the Lacedæmonians do it."

The present age might learn a lesson from the Lacedæmonians. The politeness everywhere shown to ladies makes [illegible] age. In steamboats, railroad cars, hotels, and elsewhere, an old man receives but a passing glance, and it is not an unfrequent occurrence to see a man scarcely able to walk, supporting himself in a car by the back of a seat, or by a post of a steamer, for lack of the seat which a young strong man occupies near him. We saw a lady give up her seat to an old gentleman once in such a case, and half a dozen chairs were instantly offered her by gentlemen who had remained motionless before. Americans know what is politeness if they do not practice it.---N. Y. Jour. Commerce.

An Infallible Editor.

"Sir your journal of yesterday contains false information."

"You said that Mr. M. had been tried?"

"True."

"Condemned?"

"Very true."

"Hung?"

"Most true."

"Now, sir, I'm the gentlemen himself."

"Impossible!"

"I assure you it is a fact, and I now hope you will contradict what you have alledged."

"By no means sir."

"Hum! what do you mean? you are deranged?"

"I may be so, sir, but I will not do it."

"I will complain to a magistrate."

"As you please sir; I never retract.—The most that I can do for you, is to announce that the rope broke, and that you are now in perfect health. I have my principles sir; it is said of me that I never deceive."

A man of polite imagination is let into a great many pleasures, that the vulgar are not capable of receiving. He can converse with a picture, and find an agreeable companion in a statue. He meets with a secret refreshment in a description, and often feels a greater satisfaction in the prospect of fields and meadows than another does in the possession. It gives him instead, a kind of property in everything he sees, and makes the most rude, uncultivated parts of nature administer to it as it were in another light, and discovers in it a multitude of charms that conceal themselves from the generality of mankind.

"Don't lay in that postur', dear," said Mrs. Partington to her nephew, who was stretched upon a sofa with his heels a foot or two higher than his head. "Don't lay so; raise yourself up and put this pillow under you. I knew a young man once who had a suggestion of the brain in consequence of laying so---his brains all run down into his head!" and with this admonition she left him to his nap in the little back sitting room.

Cholera in St. Petersburgh.—A letter received at Salem, from an intelligent American in St. Petersburgh, dated July 17, says:

The population of this city is about 500,000.—The number of cases of cholera are daily 650 against 1,030 ten days since, and the deaths 400 against 550. By experiments made here for the past few days, it is observed that there is but little electricity in the atmosphere, and it is with great difficulty that the machinery can be made to operate. 80,000 laboring men have left the city, and most of the manufactories have stopped in consequence of the desertion of the operatives.

Crittenden on Taylor.

In an editorial notice of a speech delivered at a public gathering at Russelville, Ky., on the 22d ultimo, by that eminent and true-hearted Whig, John J. Crittenden, we have met with a notice of the Whig candidate for the Presidency, which cannot fail to be acceptable to a large portion of our readers:

As to General Taylor, Mr. Crittenden said he thought he would give us the right kind of an administration. The old soldier had passed through every difficulty safely. He had never said that he would do any thing but what, when the time came for him to act, he was ready to act up to the emergency. He had to fight against the disadvantage of two or three to one, and he had done it successfully. No one had ever charged him in his long career with dishonesty. Honor and fame could not intoxicate him; power could not seduce him. He was as plain, as unpretending, and 'rough,' after all his brilliant achievements, as any plain citizen present. He was not bedizened with lace. He was the people's man, and the man of the people. All could recognise him in his old brown coat as old Rough and Ready—as a real republican. If he wanted to paint Kentucky, he would set up old Zack, and have him painted as the embodiment.

"Here was a man who could heal the wounds of the country. He looked to him with these hopes, and with all confidence. He knew that the other party was striving to draw the people from him, but it was in vain, for their hearts were with him. When the day of election came many a Kentuckian would find every other feeling overcome but the one determination to do his duty by Old Zack and his country. He believed General Taylor would be elected. He considered that matter well summed up by the young Kentuckian who went to Philadelphia; who said, on his return' that the people were much split up in regard to candidates; that old Rough and Ready had a great many friends, but he believed Gen. Taylor would beat him; but he thought one they called 'Old Zack' would beat both! Mr. C. had talked with Gen. Twiggs before he left Washington, and the General told him, in his decided way, with an oath, that no man could look five minutes in Gen. Taylor's face and make a proposition to him to do a mean action. No act of oppression was ever charged upon him! No man had ever paid the penalty of death by martial law from the time he fought at Palo Alto to the time he left Buena Vista. He had controlled and guided the army without bloodshed, maintained its honor and discipline, and retired without having done aught to sully the glorious character he had ever maintained as an able as well as humane man. When some deserters were brought to him after the battle of Buena Vista, before the blood they had shed had yet sunk into the earth, he looked scornfully at them and said: 'My soldiers do not desert—these are not my soldiers! Take them back to the camp, drum them out, and let them go.' When the government chided him for not storming Monterey with its twelve thousand men, with his five thousand, what was his reply? 'Yes,' he said, 'he could have taken it in that way, but he did not want to sacrifice the women and children.' When he was feted in New Orleans a friend alluding to the splendid pageant which wound through the streets of the city, said to him that 'it must have been very gratifying to him.' 'No,' said he, 'it was not. I was afraid some of the women and children might be hurt!' Who but he, when thus receiving a n a triumph like those of Cæsar, would have thought of that? But to his mind that was the most beautiful trait in General Taylor's character. It was more characteristic of him than any of the many anecdotes told of him.—The people wanted such a man, and they wanted an honest man. That was more necessary than fine talent merely, such as was displayed in public speaking. Elect him, and the people would have a man upon whom they could rely."

The New Comers.

The Statistics of Immigration from Europe for the seven months past, present curious facts, as regards the influx into New York. During that time, says the Express, the almost incredible number of one hundred and ten thousand four hundred and three persons arrived from foreign countries; during the eight preceding months, 120,952. This year the relative number of Irish and German immigrants has been in favor of the former; last year the total of Germans was greater. During the last month arrived 24,722, viz: 7,962 Germans, 10,740 Irish, 2,235 English, 1,566 Scotch, 106 French, 34 Dutch, 120 Swiss, 63 Spanish, 114 Welch, 431 Norwegians, 85 Swedish, 91 from the West Indies, 1 from Denmark, 3 from South America, and 1 from Poland. Where do these people all go? Who can tell?

The British Wanting Cuba.

The debt owing by Spain to the British bondholders, amounts with accumulated interest, to the enormous sum of $400,000,000, to 500,000,000, and as the revenues of Cuba were pledged for the payment of the interest on the loans represented by the bonds, is argued, apart from political considerations, that the bondholders are in the position of a mortgagee, who, not able to obtain payment of either principal or interest for his advices, has an undoubted right to foreclose and seize property on which, as security, the money was lent.

John Short lived in Shortville, near Briefown. Having married a stately dame, after a short courtship, he found it necessary to procure a short ladder for the purpose of ascending it to kiss her. In short, he lived a long time with his wife, and long after her decease. But death cut him short with a short summons. He was put in a short coffin, lowered into a short grave, and a short sermon was preached on the occasion, respecting the shortness of life. To make a long story short, Mr. Short was recollected a long time as having been the shortest man in Shortville.

A New Species of Potatoe.

Mr. Edwin Bryant in his tour to California, says that he was presented by one of the Kansas Indians with a root or tuber of a novel shape, about an inch and a half in length, and an inch in diameter. The root is called the prairie potatoe. Its compostion is farinaceous and highly nutricious, and its flavor more agreeable than that of the finest Irish potatoe. "I have but little doubt," adds Mr. Bryant, "if this plant were cultivated in our gardens, it would be an excellent and useful vegetable for ordinary consumption; and very probably it would be so improved as to form a substitute for the potatoe."

To Preserve Peaches.—Clean your peaches by pouring hot water upon them, and afterwards wiping them with a coarse cloth; put them up into glass or earthen jars, cork them up and fasten the corks with wire or strong twine; then place the jars in a kettle of hot water until the atmospheric air is expelled from the jars; after which seal them up tight with wax. Peaches prepared in this way retain their original flavor, and are equally as delicious, when cooked in the ordinary manner, six months or a year after being put up, as if just taken from the trees.

A Jewel Safely Kept.—The wife of a shoemaker, who resides near Girvan, and who formerly kept a cow, lost, about eleven years ago, a valuable ring. The cow was slaughtered a few days since, when the ring was found in the stomach. The man who purchased the cow insists upon keeping the ring.

Wives by the Hundred.—Letters from Tabreez mention that the heir-apparent of Persia, a youthful prince of 16 years of age, has taken to himself nine wives, and ordered one more weekly, until they reach the full number of 365.

Whig Nominations.

FOR PRESIDENT,

ZACHARY TAYLOR,

OF LOUISIANA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

MILLARD FILLMORE,

OF NEW YORK.

WHIG ELECTORAL TICKET.

SENATORIAL ELECTORS.

JOSEPH G. MARSHALL, of Jefferson.
GODLOVE S. ORTH, of Tippecanoe.

DISTRICT ELECTORS.

1st District—JOHN PITCHER, of Posey.
2d " JOHN S. DAVIS, of Floyd.
3d " MILTON GREGG, of Dearborn.
4th " DAVID P. HOLLOWAY, of Wayne.
5th " THOMAS D. WALPOLE, of Hancock.
6th " LOVEL H. ROUSSEAU, of Green.

10th " DAVID KILGORE, of Delaware.

General Taylor's Principles.

First.—I reiterate what I have often said—I am a Whig, but not an ultra Whig. If elected I would not be the mere president of a party. I would endeavor to act independent of party domination. I should feel bound to administer the Government untrammelled by party schemes.

Second.—The veto power. The power given by the constitution to the Executive to interpose his veto is a high conservative power; but in my opinion should never be exercised except in cases of clear violation of the constitution, or manifest haste and want of consideration by Congress. Indeed, I have thought that, for many years past the known opinion and wishes of the Executive have exercised undue and injurious influence upon the legislative department of the Government; and for this cause I have thought our system was in danger of undergoing a great change from its true theory. The personal opinions of the individual who may happen to occupy the Executive chair, ought not to control the action of Congress upon questions of domestic policy; nor ought his objections to be interposed where questions of constitutional power have been settled by the various departments of Government and acquiesced in by the people.

Third.—Upon the subject of the tariff, the currency, the improvement of our great highways, rivers, lakes and harbors, the will of the people, as expressed through their representatives in Congress, ought to be respected and carried out by the Executive.

Fourth.—The Mexican War. I sincerely rejoice at the prospect of peace. My life has been devoted to arms, yet I look upon war at all times and under all circumstances as a national calamity, to be avoided if compatible with national honor. The principles of our Government as well as its true policy are opposed to the subjugation of other nations and the dismemberment of other countries by conquest. In the language of the great Washington, "Why should we quit our own to stand on foreign ground." In the Mexican war our national honor has been vindicated, amply vindicated, and in dictating terms of peace we may well afford to be forbearing and even magnanimous to our fallen foe. Z. TAYLOR.

Buffalo Convention.

This remarkable assemblage, after a brief, but noisy existence, has done its work, and dissolved. Whether the dissolution amounts to a dismemberment into its original elements remains yet to be seen. It was a much talked of affair; and was heralded forth by trumpets loud and long. To those unacquainted with the secret workings by which this wonderful body was got together, its doings may seem to possess a much greater degree of importance, than on a proper investigation they will be found to merit. A more discordant and heterogenious mass of political elements has perhaps rarely been thrown together in any country. To talk of principle would be a burlesque. Abolition Whigs, if the phrase be not paradoxical, and Van Buren Barnburners, setting together in judgment, upon the political affairs of the nation. Martin Van Buren voted for, and placed in nomination for the Presidency by those whose principles he has repudiated, both as President and Vice President, and not only for the time, but as he declared, forever.

In his Inaugural Address in 1836, Mr. Van Buren made the following declaration: "I must go into the Presidential chair the inflexible and uncompromising opponent of every attempt to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia against the wishes of the slaveholding States; and also with a determination equally decided to resist the interference with it in the States where it exists. It now only remains for me to add, that no bill conflicting with these views can ever receive my constitutional sanction."

In 1834–5 Mr. Van Buren was Vice President of the U. States, and presided over the deliberations of the Senate. A bill allowing postmasters to open mail bags, and to search for and detain such documents as they may determine to be incendiary was before the Senate. This was intended to prevent the circulation of abolition papers and documents. The vote was a tie, and Mr. Van Buren gave his casting vote in favor of the bill!

The Abolition party are unquestionably accountable for the election of Jas. K. Polk. The vote of that party in New York would have given that State to Mr. Clay, and thereby secured his election. But Abolitionists insisted they must maintain principle, and could not vote for Henry Clay. Now where is that principle? They have placed Van Buren in nomination—but can they consistently support his election? We are aware that the free soil principle, or opposition to the extension of slavery over territories now free, is ingeniously mystified with the Buffalo Convention movement. Let Whigs look to this and not be deceived. Trust not these New York Barnburners, who were really the moving spirits of this whole Buffalo affair. In the resolutions, or platform, adopted by that Convention, there is just about leaven of Whig enough to keep the whole from spoiling, and hardly that.—As little as possible was thrown in for a particular use—but not a particle more than was supposed necessary to keep Whigs in countenance while attending the Convention, and if possible, also to reconcile a vote on the great day of election.

For these Barnburners of New York we have neither sympathy nor respect. They are entitled to none. They are, at best, nothing but disorganizers, without any redeeming political virtue whatever. As to Mr. Van Buren, the whole moral of his move is, opposition to the election of Cass. And in this we should care not how much aid he might receive from any quarter—we would even call it good morals to help him out in this his virtuous undertaking. But there may be a possibility that Mr. Van Buren has overshot the mark—and that this very move, intended to defeat Cass, may be the means, really, of securing his election. Most undoubtedly, so far as the Buffalo nomination is contributed to by Whigs, the tendency will be, to aid the election of the Baltimore nominee, and to defeat that of the Philadelphia nomination. Every Whig vote given for Van Buren, is one taken from Gen. Taylor, and of course, lessening his chance of election, and aiding in precisely the same proportion—the election of Gen. Cass. Will Whigs be caught in this kind of trap? Surely not—it is a well planned scheme, but cannot take.

Taylor Barbecue.

We have just visited the grounds selected for the FORT HARRISON GRAND MASS MEETING. A more beautiful spot for the purpose could not be found. Groves sufficiently large for shade; and open ground ample for encampment, parade, flag-staffs, &c., &c. The Committee are entitled to great credit for the arrangements. Three stands are in preparation for public speaking, with full shade, and room for each, all in the same grove, without danger of interruption one from the other. The table for refreshments, several hundred feet in length, will be some distance from the speakers stands, and protected by the foliage of a fine cluster of well shaded trees in the same grove.

We hear of processions and cavalcades coming from several directions. We say, come on, one and all! In such a cause, and at such a time and place, none need fear disappointment. How could there be disappointment with such good cheer! Music, cannon, Taylor flags, fine speaking, roast beef, &c., &c.

Hon. R. W. Thompson.

An elegant Silver Goblet has been prepared for a number of Baltimore Whigs, with a view to its presentation to the Hon. R. W. Thompson, whose able and eloquent speech at the great Whig ratification meeting held in Monument Square on the night of the 20th of June last, won for him so many warm and admiring friends among the Whigs. The goblet is elegantly chased and engraved, and bears a representation of the scene presented in Monument Square on the night of the meeting, and at the time Mr. Thompson was addressing the assemblage.

It was understood the goblet would be sent to Washington, and there presented to Mr. Thompson previous to his starting for the West.

The Buffalo Hunt.

The Baltimore American, says, When the President of the United States replied to the Senate's resolution of inquiry as to his knowledge of any design on the part of American citizens to aid in revolutionizing any portion of Mexico with a view to the establishment of a separate Republic, he declared himself uninformed touching any such design. It is probable that the President alluded to official information.

The New Orleans papers speak so confidently of the existence of the design referred to, and of the arrangements now rapidly in progress to carry it into execution, that there is no room for any skepticism concerning it except with those who have made up their minds to be taken by surprise. The official paper is doubtless prepared to be very much astonished.

Gen. SHIELDS, appointed to the Government of Oregon, declines the appointment. He prefers to amuse himself this Fall by hunting buffaloes on the Rio Grande. Perhaps he also prefers the Presidency of the Republic of the Sierra Madre to a Pro-consulate beyond the Rocky Mountains.

WASHINGTON NATIONAL MONUMENT.—We are happy to learn, says the National Intelligencer, that the foundation of this great structure is moving upward as rapidly as the nature of such a work will admit. It is eighty feet square, and of solid stone. The masonry is said to be so far most skillfully and carefully executed, and promises to do great credit to all concerned in the erection of this magnificent memorial of the gratitude of the American people to the illustrious Father of his country.

NICE SITUATION.—Two gentlemen coming up St. Louis street, New Orleans, had their attention excited by a peculiar noise at the corner of Franklin and the former street. Looking about them, they found a drunken man lying in the gutter, with a snake wound round his body. They immediately despatched the snake, which measured eleven feet in length, and had the man taken care of.

Letter from General Taylor.

The Memphis, Tenn., Eagle contains a private letter written by Gen. Taylor to a friend who had called his attention to some gross slanders against him in the Memphis Appeal. It will be seen that the old hero indignantly denies ever having spoken disrespectfully of volunteers:

BATON ROUGE, LA., Aug. 5, 1848.

MY DEAR SIR: Your esteemed letter of the 27th ult., enclosing a slip cut from the "Memphis Appeal," was this moment received, containing statements said to have been made by me disrespectful of the volunteers; among others that I had said they were not worth their rations, and that this can be proved, together with many other evidences of unkindliness towards them on my part; all of which is without the slightest foundation. There is but little doubt in my mind that he who invents a falsehood to injure his neighbor or fellow-citizen, as well as he who lends himself to and aids in giving circulation to the same, knowing it to be false, would not hesitate one moment to swear to it on the Holy Bible. My numerous official reports to the War Department in relation to the gallant and patriotic volunteers, which have been so extensively published in most of the leading public journals of the country, give the lie direct to the statements in question; and which the gentlemen of the "Appeal" might have known had they looked an inch beyond their noses, or wished to have made themselves acquainted with all the facts in the case, before they published so gross a slander in regard to one who had never injured them, and whose only crime was, that his name, without his agency in the matter, had been brought before the country by a portion of his fellow-citizens for the first office in the gift of a great and free people.

As to the romantic story about the wounded soldier at Buena Vista (in connection with a Mexican lady) which ended so tragically, and who is said to have been shot by my orders, it is without the slightest foundation; nothing of the kind, or even approaching it, ever took place; nor do I believe was ever heard of except at Memphis and the vicinity, before it was published in the "Appeal;" it is on a par with a story that I had spoken disrespectfully of, and otherwise outraged the volunteers; and a more base and heartless calumny was never propagated. Not a drop of American blood was shed by my order while in Mexico, nor of a Mexican, except in the heat of battle.

The whole matter contained in said slip is too silly to be credited, nor would I have noticed it had I not deemed it proper to reply to your friendly communication.

I must, from my position, expect to be assailed by many unscrupulous editors of newspapers as, well as hired demagogues, without regard to truth, decency, or any thing else. I have therefore made up my mind not to let such things annoy me, let them emanate from what quarter they may; but to "pursue the even tenor of my way," without turning to the right or to the left to notice them.

[illegible] and esteem your friend and servant,

Z. TAYLOR.

Important Letter from Gen. Taylor.

The Philadelphia Ledger contains the following important letter from General Taylor, addressed to Mr. Lippard, of that city, written eleven days after the letter addressed to Gov. Morehead.

BATON ROUGE, LA., July 24, 1848.

Dear Sir:—Your letter of the 5th instant, asking of me a line or two, in regard to my position as a candidate for the Presidency, has been duly received.

In reply, I have to say that I am not a party candidate, and if elected shall not be the President of a party, but the President of the whole people.

I am, dear sir, with high respect and regard, your most obedient servant,

Z. TAYLOR.

GEO. LIPPARD, Esq., Philadelphia.

Fort Harrison Mass Meeting.

At a meeting of the Committee of Arrangements for the Fort Harrison Mass Meeting, held at the Court House in Terre-Haute, on the 5th inst., the following resolution was unanimously adopted, and the editors of the Terre-Haute papers requested to publish the same till the day of the Meeting:

Resolved, That a general invitation is hereby given to the friends of Gen. Taylor and Millard Fillmore, and to the public—far and near, in the North, South, East and West—to attend the GRAND MASS MEETING at Fort Harrison, on the 5th of September next.

W. F. KRUMBHAAR, Chairman.

E. W. CONARD, Secretary.

The Buffalo Convention.

A correspondent of the Rochester Daily Democrat (Whig) gives the following illustration, from primitive times, of the composition of the Buffalo Convention:

DEAR SIR:—For the proceedings of the Buffalo Convention, read the first and second verses of the twenty-second chapter of the first book of Samuel, and in the place of "David" read John Van Buren, and in the place of "the cave Adullam" read Buffalo.

So amended the passage reads as follows:

"John Van Buren therefore departed thence and escaped to Buffalo; and when his brethren and all his fathers heard of it they went thither to him.

"And every one that was in distress, and every one that was in debt, and every one that was discontented gathered themselves unto him; and he became a captain over them; and there were with him about four hundred men."

One of the Irish Leaders.

We clip the following paragraph from the last number of "Lloyd's Weekly London Newspaper:"

Mahoney, the guerilla chief of the Ruiyneal, near the slate quarries, drills a thousand men every evening at 6 o'clock; he is a man of powerful stature; his arms are a blunderbuss slung over his shoulders, a pike ten feet and a half long, containing three pounds weight of steel, with a pair of pistols slung in a belt of untanned leather. It appears there is a warrant for his arrest, which will be rather a difficult task, as he can summon from the wilds of Slievenamon a formidable force to his rescue.

A FEMALE CENTENARIAN.—Nannie Wolcott died in Oxford, Me., on the 17th inst., aged 114 years.

The following letter from the Hon. JOHN EWING, of Vincennes, was received in answer to an invitation to attend the Fort Harrison Mass Meeting:

VINCENNES, July 27, 1848.

Dear Sirs:—I have had the honor to receive your invitation as a committee on behalf of the Whigs of Vigo county, to be present at a grand Mass Meeting for the interchange of sentiment, and a general ratification of the nominations of ZACHARY TAYLOR to the Presidency, and MILLARD FILLMORE to the Vice Presidency of the United States, at the site of Fort Harrison, on the 5th September the 36th anniversary of the ever glorious defence of that post. I concur most cordially in the object; and with feelings and views coincident, it will afford me heartfelt pleasure to unite with you on the interesting occasion. Since 1813, I have had the honor of a personal acquaintance with General Zac. (then Brevet Major) Taylor: and he has invariably merited my unqualified confidence as a patriotic and enlightened soldier, of stern integrity, of consummate wisdom, of sound republican principles, of unsurpassed purity, liberality, and valor. With my knowledge and convictions of Gen. Taylor's moral and intellectual worth, and correct principles, and of President Polk's party misrule, I felt a joy inexpressible, when the latter by some unusually correct impulse, conferred upon the former the chief command of the army of observation, or occupation, on the Rio Grande; and with thousands of other citizens throughout the U. States, I have since his qualities become generally known, deemed him at this crisis, "THE MAN OF THE PEOPLE" for the Presidential chair—therefore I have advocated his nomination from the first, and with strengthened conviction, of his merit and the propriety of his election, shall remain so to the end. I well know, that Gen. Taylor will never exercise power as a party partizan, that he is a Washington—Whig of the genuine stamp; that he will not be proscriptive, nor will he tolerate evil doers in office within his reach; that he will see, the laws enacted under the constitution by the people's representatives, faithfully executed; that he will expel all party impositions, and foul trickery, from official influence—and that his election to the Presidency over such a party hack as Gen. Lewis Cass, is due to ourselves and to our free institutions. I would not speak disrespectfully of Gen. Cass: he has enriched himself in the public employ, and that may satisfy him in lieu of the useful, and brilliant, but less profitable public career of Gen. Taylor, by which his head is covered with laurels and the measure of his COUNTRY'S GLORY has been filled. In truth Gen. T. has the endowments of both head and heart, to confer a glory as her chief magistrate, above that which he has conferred as her General in command—he will arrest much threatened and existing evil, and by an upright course of policy strengthen the union of the States by promoting their social, commercial, and political welfare.

With MILLARD FILLMORE I became acquainted during our service in Congress. His clear mind, his correct principles, his business habits, his able advocacy of right, won general confidence, and endeared him as a public servant, worthy of the highest honor. I hail your contemplated celebration under the auspices of a ticket for President and Vice President so meritorious, as the harbinger of better times, and brighter days to come. Its success will insure a general deliverance and reformation—therefore all just and proper endeavors should be made in due time. The great body of good and true republicans of the U. States may well rejoice at the termination of Mr. Polk's party course—his exercise of the "one man power" has been most emphatically condemned by a majority of the representatives in Congress, yet Gen. Cass stands pledged to pursue the same arbitrary course—let the freemen of Indiana resolve that the kingly power of Locofocoism is never again to pass into partizan hands. In this State I know, we greatly need mutual support and encouragement. The smoke, and fire, and mystery of the Prophet and his Indians at Fort Harrison, with their arrows, and balls on the 5th Sept. 1815, were little more dangerous to Captain Taylor and his few men, than the strategy, and false pretences of Polk's pensioned editors, and officeholders, to truth and knowledge at the present day. By his energy, courage and skill, Taylor gained a most extraordinary victory upon that occasion—now let our citizens display the same qualities, and our State will stand redeemed. Then we may exult, and take some repose, when the victory be gained—but not before can rejoicing be proper or appropriate. And here allow me to say that there is room to apprehend that the approaching August election in this State, will afford no test of General Taylor's strength in many counties. I know it cannot now be made to do so in Knox county—'tis therefore the more necessary to inspirit county meetings for a great and general rally at Fort Harrison. In this connection I take leave to express my satisfaction that the site of Fort Harrison is in Vigo county—a county worthy of special regard for its general intelligence and improvement, as it is also, for its uniform adherence to correct principles. The glorious victory of Taylor at the Fort, agrees in association with the record of your improving town, and your flourishing county.

I remain, gentlemen,
with great respect,
your obedient serv't,
JOHN EWING.

To Thos. H. Blake, James Farrington, Esqrs., and others, Committee.

PRESERVATION OF STAIR CARPETS.—Stair carpets should always have a strip of paper put under them, at, and over the edge of every stair, which is the part where they wear out, in order to lessen the friction of the carpets on the boards beneath. The strips should be within an inch or two as long as the carpet is wide, and about four or five inches in width, so as to be at a distance from each stair. This simple plan, so easy of execution, will, we know, preserve a stair carpet half as long again as it would without the strips of paper.—Germantown Telegraph.

☞The duel between Senators Benton and Butler is supposed to be at an end, Mr. Benton having declined to reply to either of the notes addressed to him by Mr. Butler.

FOREIGN NEWS

Seven Days Later from Europe.

ARRIVAL OF THE BRITANNIA.

NEW YORK, August 26, P. M.

The foreign news was received at Boston this morning by pigeon express, beating the newspaper associations entirely. I have consequently but a very meagre report of the Irish news, and I shall not probably be able to send anything more till to-morrow, until which time there will be no reliable accounts.

O'Brien was arrested on Saturday evening, at Thurles Railroad, while procuring a ticket for Limerick, where he purposed seeking refuge from his friends.—The Government was still supreme, and every day lessens the probability of an outbreak.

O'Brien was lodged in jail in Dublin. He expresses himself as having but little hopes of seeing the object for which he struggled accomplished, as the people in the mountains seemed afraid to harbor him. His wife and family were freely admitted to the prison to see him, and he at all times appeared cheerful.

Further Foreign News.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28, 1848.

Charles Albert is utterly defeated.—Milan is in the hands of the Austrians.

The Cholera has reached Berlin.

It is rumored that the Emperor of Austria has resigned; the rumor is credited at present.

France and England will interfere to adjust the difficulties between Austria and Italy.

The exact position of Russia in regard to the Germanic Confederation is not generally understood.

Another conspiracy against the present Spanish Ministry has been discovered at Madrid and completely repressed.

Ireland.

The correspondent of the Freeman's Journal says that a communication has been made to the government of Ireland, through certain of the Catholic clergy, that proscribed gentlemen will surrender themselves to the authorities on receiving assurances that they will not be punished capitally. Since this, another proclamation warning vessels that the penalty of treason attaches to those concerned in favoring the escape of any traitors, has been promulgated by the government.

Irish accounts say that the South is ripe for rebellion, and only want leaders; that the disaffection is not crushed—but that when the troops go into winter quarters, then mischief will commence.—Until then, the leaders determine to remain passive.

For Oregon.

Orders, we learn, have been received from Washington for company C, of the Rifle Regiment, Capt. Roberts, and Lieut. Elliott and Hawkins, to repair to Fort Leavenworth, and there await the orders of the newly appointed Governor, Gen. Lane, for Oregon. The company will leave Jefferson Barracks to-morrow.—We learn that it is the desire of the Administration that the Governor shall [illegible] it is utterly impossible that the trip can be performed by such a large body of men at this late season of the year.—The command may possibly reach Fort Laramie or Fort Hall, before the full rigor of the winter sets in; but even this is questionable, as the grass on the prairies will have been dried up and burned even before they can progress far beyond Fort Leavenworth. The command, it is said, is to go out with pack mules, and without any other baggage train, so that the trip may be made as speedily as possible.—St. Louis Republican, Aug. 25.

The Buffalo Nomination.

The nomination of Van Buren and Charles Francis Adams, at Buffalo, for President and Vice President of the United States, ought to cause people to reflect upon the effect which political power has upon families. We have in the Buffalo nominations a combination remarkable only for the dissimilarity of the materials which compose it—Van Buren had ever opposed the Adamses, and the Adamses Van Buren, so long as they were rivals for place. When, however, the people nominated new men then the two houses combine for the purpose of defeating these new men. It is galling to the pride of the "first families" to have such men as Taylor, Abbott Lawrence, or Millard Fillmore nominated for Presidents and Vice Presidents, and accordingly the Ex-Bourbon Van Buren, and Prince John Van Buren, and the Prince Charles Francis Adams, unite their forces. Their flunkeys are called together from various parts of the country, and the "old man," as Prince John calls his father, is put on for President, and Charles Francis Adams for Vice. Thus the union of the two houses is perfected. We think it will be difficult to bring the Whigs of Massachusetts to vote for Van Buren, and, as regards the Vice President, we think, in the language of Judge Allen, "that Massachusetts will spurn the bribe."—Boston Atlas

THE POPE STRUCK WITH APOPLEXY.—A letter in the Courier des Etats Unis states that the Sardinian ambassador at Paris had received a communication from Florence, announcing that on the 4th of July, Pope Pius IX was struck with an attack of apoplexy, and that his condition excited serious anxiety. The Fourth of July last seems to have been fatal to several of the great men of Europe. It was on that day that Chateaubriand died.

PATRICK DOYLE, charged with being concerned in enticing slaves to runaway, had a hearing before an examining court yesterday. A number of witnesses were examined, and although no positive evidence was elicited against him, his guilt was made sufficiently manifest to justify the court in sending him on for further trial before the Fayette Circuit Court. Bail to the amount of $20,000 was required, which the prisoner was not able to give, and was committed to jail.

FORT HARRISON MASS MEETING.
Order of Proceedings.

The Committee of Arrangements have adopted the following, as the Order of Proceedings of the day:

1st. The national flag will be raised in Terre Haute, at sunrise, immediately succeeded by a salute of music and thirty guns from the artillery at that place.

2d. At 8 o'clock a signal gun will be fired, when the different delegations are expected to assemble on the grounds near the Prairie House, in town, each delegation separate and distinct, to be formed into line by the Chief Marshals, to proceed to Fort Harrison.

Chief Marshals,
Capt. L. H. ROUSSEAU,
Capt. JOHN OSBORN.

Order of Procession.

1. Music.
2. Committee of Reception.
3. Committee of Arrangements.
4. President and Vice Presidents of the day.
5. Revolutionary Soldiers and Soldiers of the Late War.
6. Distinguished Strangers.
7. Delegations from adjoining States.
8. Delegations from adjoining counties.
9. Citizens on foot.
10. Citizens on horseback.
11. Citizens in wagons and carriages.

The procession will move down the county road to Ohio street; down Ohio to Second; up Second to Wabash; up Wabash to Market; up Market to Lafayette road, thence to the ground.

On the arrival of the procession at the grove near the Fort, the Fort will be saluted with thirty guns. And the further proceedings on the ground to be conducted under the direction of the President and Vice Presidents of the day.

By order of the Committee of Arrangements.

W. F. KRUMBHAAR, Pres't.

E. W. CONARD, Sec'y.

After alighting at the grove, all horses, carriages, and wagons, are to be removed outside of the area formed by the stands.

Martin Van Buren Nominated for President by the Buffalo Convention.

This has been done, and it strikes a death blow to all the lingering hopes of the friends of Gen. Cass. In every free State it will detach votes enough from Gen. Cass to give those States to Gen. Taylor—probably with one or two exceptions. And in these exceptions we do not class our own State. We readily admit that some Whigs may vote for Mr. Van Buren; but we are quite sure that 20 locos will go for him to five Whigs. We are aware that much is said about "Free Soil Territories," but there is a stronger cause moving in this case than even that. There is a class of Old Hunkers in the Locofoco party in all the States, that have excluded another class, Barnburners, we may call them, from all offices and honors; and they see no way to place themselves in a desirable position in regard to the spoils, than by furthering the Van Buren movement. Religion, philanthropy and politics, are singularly mixed up in this case; and the progress of the party will be onward we hope, until the whigs shall be able to apply the principles of the ordinance of '87 to all new territory. This will prevent wars from being gotten up for the benefit of the south, which have mainly to be sustained by the sinews and money of the free States. Every thing looks fair for the accomplishment of these desirable objects.—Illinois State Journal.

Republic of the Rio Grande.

The following advertisement which has appeared in several of the New Orleans papers, is said to refer to the enterprise of establishing a new and independent Republic, extending from the Gulf several hundred miles back, and from the Rio Grande to the Sierra Madre:

BUFFALO HUNT ON THE RIO GRANDE.—All those desirous of joining in the Buffalo Hunt on the Rio Grande, next fall, are requested to send their names and address to the Grand Scribe of the O. O. O., on or before the first day of September next. They will state the number of persons in each party, their equipments, &c. Rifles, muskets, or "revolvers" must be furnished by each hunter. As the party may expect occasional attacks from the hostile Indians roaming in that section of the country, it is recommended that each party should be organized and drilled before meeting at the rendezvous. It is expected that many friendly Mexicans, skillful in the sport, and acquainted with the habits and haunts of the animal, will join the party. Due notice of the time of meeting and the rendezvous will be given through the public press.

It is stated in the papers that the command of this Buffalo Hunt has been offered to Gen. Shields.

"POLITICS MAKE STRANGE BEDFELLOWS."—The fortunes of De Witt Clinton were blasted by Mr. Van Buren; yet long before the turf was green over the remains of that great statesman, his eldest son was among the obsequious followers of him by whom the father had been maligned, overthrown and destroyed!

Mr. Van Buren was the leader of a party which, by means as profligate and wicked as ambition could suggest, and recklessness execute, prostrated the administration of John Quincy Adams.—And yet the warning voice of the "old man eloquent" is scarcely hushed in the grave, before his "son and heir" is a delegate to a Van Buren convention, and actually links his fortune to that of his father's most bitter enemy!—Albany Journal.

W. O'CONNER'S

PURELY VEGETABLE

FEVER & AGUE NOSTRUM.

THIS medicine has been used for the last eight years by a large number of individuals afflicted with diseases usually termed Fever and Ague, Dumb Ague, Chill, or Intermittent Fevers, Jaundice, &c., &c. The proprietor has been unwearied in his efforts, from year to year, to improve the virtues of his Specific for the various diseases herein referred to, until he can now confidently introduce and recommend it as one of the most safe and effectual remedies extant. The Specific, or "Nostrum," is composed exclusively of vegetable extracts, many of which, would in themselves have relieved the diseased patient, and temporarily restored to health; but by persevering application to render the Specific in the highest degree valuable, some new ingredients were fortunately discovered, which by addition have, by an experimental and scientific combination, now rendered it not only a temporary relief (like other similar remedies) from diseases of a bilious character, but is warranted to effect a permanent and radical cure, when taken in conformity with the directions.

Numerous certificates, as well as individual testimony, could be furnished in evidence of its wonderful efficacy and never failing virtues. All, however, who are afflicted, can do themselves no greater benefit than at least to try a remedy which experience has demonstrated as one of the most valuable in recent discoveries. For sale by

ASTHMA OF ELEVEN YEARS STANDING

Permanently cured by Dr. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, after all other remedies had failed.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 19, 1847.

DR. SWAYNE:—This may certify that eleven years ago last Fall, I was troubled with the Asthma, which increased upon me in defiance of all the remedies I could hear of, until the year 1839–'40, when I was obliged to leave my native New England, for a milder clime, which had the effect to mitigate my sufferings for three or four years, after which the disease increased until last winter, my sufferings were intense, almost beyond endurance, being obliged to sit up night after night, from inability to sleep in bed.

Last Fall I felt the symptoms earlier than usual in the season, but hearing that DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY was a sovereign remedy for Diseases of the Lungs, I immediately commenced its use, and the result was almost immediate relief. For the last six weeks I have not felt the least symptoms of the Asthma, and feel confident that I am well of it, and that I have been cured by the above named medicine.

Yours respectfully, J. W. KNIGHT.
Walnut street, between 3d and 4th.

Caution! Caution!!

Avoid all spurious preparations of Wild Cherry, such as Balsams, Bitters, Syrups of Wild Cherry, Pills purporting to contain Wild Cherry, &c., as they are all fictitious and counterfeit, and contain none of the virtues of the original and genuine preparation, as prepared by Dr. H. Swayne—the first ever prepared in this country. Dr. S.'s Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, is composed of vegetable ingredients, the Wild Cherry and other medical substances, equally as efficacious, if not more so; the whole are concentrated as to render it beyond all doubt, the most pleasant, strengthening and effectual remedy ever discovered for the cure of Pulmonary Consumption, and all diseases of the Lungs and Breast. The very fact, from its having such a train of spurious imitators, stands to prove its great curative properties.

Therefore, invalids, inquire for the original preparation, each bottle of which is enveloped in a beautiful wrapper, with a likeness of William Penn engraved thereon; also bearing the signature of Dr. H. Swayne, the counterfeiting of which will be punished as forgery.

Prepared only by DR. SWAYNE, N. W. corner of Eighth and Race streets Philadelphia, and for sale by respectable Druggists in nearly all the principal towns in the United States.

"WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY," for Coughs, Asthma, Influenza, Consumption, &c. We do not wish to trifle with the lives of the afflicted, and we sincerely pledge ourselves to make no assertions as to the [illegible], and to hold out no hope to suffering humanity, which FACTS will not warrant. But when so many hundreds, who had been given up by their friends as a sure prey to consumption, have been restored to entire health by Dr. Wistar's Balsam—we cannot hold our peace while so many around us are fast sinking to the grave for the want of a salutary remedy.

Try WISTAR'S Balsam, and restored health will be your reward.

DR. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS Is of more value to Consumptives than all the diamonds in the world, as the following persons of Cincinnati testify: Mr. Wheadon, (from Wheadon & Gest,) R. P. Donough, (Ben Franklin Printing Office,) Mr. Bennet, (Gano's Hardware store,) Mr. Bell, (one price store 5th street,) Mrs. Coles, (on 6th between Smith and John,) Mrs. S. McLean, (corner of 9th and Walnut) Mrs. Menken, 5th st.,) Mr. Guthrie, City Hotel, who says that Dr. Hall's Balsam not only cured his cough, but dispersed the Tubercles which the Dr. said had form on his Lungs. Mr. Sieg, at the Gazette office who was cured of a cough and pain in the breast of long standing. Mr. Johnson, 5th street, says that Dr. Hall's Balsam not only cured a most desperate cough but stopped the night sweats and pain in his breast and side. Ask all these and they will tell you that Dr. Hall's Balsam is a diamond above price, and one that is destined to sparkle in every spot on the wide world where Cough, Colds and Consumptions are known.

MEDICINES.

MONTHLY BULLETIN NO. 7.

NOW is the season for STOMACH AND BOWEL COMPLAINTS; and it is of unspeakable importance that the most reliable preventives and remedies be brought to public notice in every section of the country. This company would call the attention of medical men, parents, nurses and all others, to their CHILDREN'S PANACEA, a medicine which is unparalleled for its power over all the summer disorders of children, whether of the stomach, the bowels, the kidneys, the skin, or the general circulation. In Cholera Infantum (summer complaint.) Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Wasting Away, Costiveness, Teething, etc., etc., it is infallible. No family should be a moment without it, as its timely use will save life, and carry the most feeble children through the summer. It is accompanied by careful and minute directions.
The DYSENTERY SYRUP of this company is an infallible specific in this alarming disorder. It is warranted to cure; and if it should not the money will in all cases be refunded. Thousands of lives have been saved by its use. No matter how extreme the case, a cure is certain. Medical men, and all others, should immediately procure a supply, and thus confer a great blessing on their respective patients, families, and communities.
The other medicines of the Graefenberg Company are too well known to need mention at this time. Suffice it to say, that they are sought for with unexampled avidity, and are performing the most astonishing cures. Fever and Ague, Scrofula, Consumption, Billious Fevers, etc., etc., are conquered by them. The Graefenberg Sarsaparilla Compound is taking the lead of all others, and contains double the number of doses of any other.

CONSUMPTIVE PATIENTS!!

CAUTION.—As attempts are constantly made to deceive the public with spurious imitations of almost every valuable medicine offered to the public notice, I deem it necessary to request all purchasers to observe the following marks of the genuine BALSAM. It is put up in bottles with the following words: "WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, PHILADELPHIA," blown in the glass; also, each bottle bears a label on the front, with the signatures of Henry Wistar, M. D., Philadelphia, and Sandford & Park, which, to imitate or counterfeit, will be prosecuted for a forgery. It is therefore necessary to be particular and ask for Dr. Wistar's Balsam, as all other preparations of Wild Cherry are entirely different from this medicine, and possess none of its virtues.

Another Invalid Restored to Health.

[Read the following statement of facts from Mr. Eli Bailey, a highly respectable merchant of Vienna, Johnson co., Illinois.]

Messrs. Phelps and Blackley, St. Louis, Mo.

GENTLEMEN:—A desire to benefit the afflicted throughout the land has alone induced me to make the following statement of facts respecting one of the most astonishing cures ever recorded. My son, now seventeen years old, has been afflicted during his whole life, with a constant cough, pain in the side and chest, accompanied with night sweats and hectic fever, which produced great emaciation and debility; and at intervals during the night, his expectoration would become so great as to endanger his life from strangulation. During the time he was attended by many physicians of the highest repute, whose prescriptions gave but temporary relief—in fact, so alarming were the symptoms, and so inveterate was his disease, that I was compelled to believe him beyond the reach of medical aid.
All of our neighbors and friends who saw him, regarded him as one who was rapidly approaching an early and premature grave. After having thus exausted the skill of our best physicians, without obtaining relief, I was prevailed upon by the advice of a friend to make use of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.
He commenced its use about the 30th of Dec. 1844, the first bottle of which gave astonishing relief, and I began again to indulge in the fond hope that he might yet be restored to health.
After having continued the use of it until three bottles had been taken, the disease was entirely overcome, and his shattered constitution and emaciated form restored to sound and permanent health, which he continues to enjoy up to the present time.
I believe the genuine Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry to be one of the most valuable medicines ever discovered—knowing, as I do, that the the above cure was effected solely by its use.
I am, gentlemen, very respectfully,
Your most obedient servant,
ELI BAILEY.
April 9, 1846.

CONSUMPTIVE PATIENTS!!

Will please read the following statement from the Harrison Gazette. The incredulous are invited to read the following note from Rev. Mr. Coldron, whose character for truth and veracity stands above suspicion, and have their doubts dispelled as to the superiority of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, over all other remedies now before the public of the same character.
CORYDON, Ind., Jan. 28, 1848.
It is no less a duty than a pleasure to state, for the benefit of the afflicted, that I consider WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY a great blessing to the human race. Having tried it in a case of severe affliction of the lungs, I unhesitatingly recommend it to those similarly afflicted, as the best remedy I have ever tried, and one which cured me when physicians said I must die, and when I thought myself that my time to depart was near at hand.
WILLIAM COLDRON.
There is a difference between "WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY" and all other preparations of Wild Cherry. The true and genuine Balsam, as sold by us, contains, besides the extract of wild cherry bark, other medical agents of great character and efficacy in the cure of coughs, colds, and general diseases of the chest and lungs. But the all important difference between this medicine and all others of the kind is, that Wistar's Balsam cures, while other remedies give only temporary relief to the sufferer.
Sold by J. D. PARK, (successor to SANDFORD & PARK,) Fourth and Walnut streets, Cincinnati, O., General Agent for the South and West, to whom all orders must be addressed.

DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND
SYRUP of WILD CHERRY

THE MOST EXTRAORDINARY MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

CONSUMPTION

Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Liver Complaint, Spitting Blood, Difficulty of Breathing, Pain in the Side and Breast, Palpitation of the Heart, Influenza, Croup, Broken Constitution, Sore Throat, Nervous Debility, and all diseases of the Throat, Breast and Lungs; the most effectual and speedy cure ever known for any of the above diseases is
DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

Read the Certificate.

Still another cure of Pulmonary Consumption.—There never was a remedy that has been so successful in desperate cases of Consumption as DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY. It strengthens the system, and appears to heal the ulcers on the lungs, creating new and rich blood; a power possessed by no other medicine.

WONDERFUL CURE OF A METHODIST MINISTER.

DR. SWAYNE—Dear Sir: I feel it a debt of gratitude due to you—and a duty to the afflicted generally; to offer my humble testimony in favor of your COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY. Some three years since, I was violently attacked with cold and Inflammation of the Lungs, which was accompanied with a very distressing cough, pain in the breast and head, a very considerable discharge of offensive mucus from the lungs, especially upon changes of weather, however slight.—At first I felt no alarm about my condition, but was pretty soon convinced that I was rapidly going into consumption. I grew daily weaker, and at length was scarcely able to walk about, or speak above a whisper, such was the exceeding weakness of my lungs. During this time I had tried various preparations and prescriptions, but found no relief—growing all the time worse. Just here I was advised and persuaded by a dear friend in Wilmington to make a trial of your Syrup of Wild Cherry. I must confess that previously I had been prejudiced against patent medicines, and I am still against those coming out of the hands of empirics, but understanding your claims to the profession and practice of medicine, and having implicit faith in the sayings of my friends, I forthwith purchased of Dr. Shaw, one of your agents, a few bottles and commenced its use.
My disease was at that time of 20 or 25 month's standing, consequently it was deeply seated. I found, however, considerable relief from the use of the first four or five bottles. But being a public speaker, I frequently attempted to preach with my increasing strength, and thereby ruptured those vessels that had already begun to heal; in this way, doubtless, my cure was greatly retarded—In consequence of acting thus imprudently, I had to use twelve or fifteen bottles before I was perfectly restored. I have no question, a much smaller number of bottles would have made me sound, but for the above indiscretion. The Syrup allayed the feverish habit, took away the distressing cough, put a stop to the discharge of matter from the lungs, and gave them and the entire system good health. I have deferred offering this certificate until now, for the purpose of being perfectly satisfied with the permanency of the cure, and now that I feel perfectly well I offer it with pleasure.
REV. J. P. JORDAN.
Dublin county, N. C.

IMPORTANT CAUTION--READ!

There is but one genuine preparation of Wild Cherry, and that is Dr. Swayne's, the first ever offered to the public, which has been sold largely throughout the United States and some parts of Europe; and all preparations called by the name of Wild Cherry have been put out since this under cover of some deceptive circumstances, in order to give currency to their sales. By a little observation no person need mistake the genuine from the false. Each bottle of the genuine is enveloped with a beautiful steel engraving, with the likeness of William Penn thereon; also Dr. Swayne's signature, and as a further security, the portrait of Dr. Swayne will be added hereafter, so as to distinguish his preparation from all others. Now if it was not for the great curative properties and known virtues of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, persons would not be endeavoring to give currency to their "fictitious nostrums" by STEALING the name of Wild Cherry. Remember, always bear in mind the name of Dr. Swayne, and be not deceived.

Origin and Progress of Dancing.

Perhaps my patrons and friends may be pleased and feel some gratification in being made familiar with a subject that interests them all, as it regards the education of their children.

Dancing claims its origin from the first ages of the world. Joy and pleasure were at first expressed by the natural motions of the body by irregular jumps and springs, but in process of time these irregular movements were regulated by the sound of the voice, and of musical instruments. Then, the motions of the body and arms, and the features also began to express, after some acknowledged principles, the passion of man. According to the impulse of these, the feet moved either slowly or quickly.

Dancing has been in use amongst all the people of the earth, rude or civilized; it constituted not only a part of their education, but also their religion. After the deliverance of the Hebrews, and the crossing of the Red Sea, Moses instituted festivals and dances; David danced before the holy ark; Socrates learned dancing from Aspasia; the Cretan and Spartan soldiers danced when going to attack their enemies; the Savages danced around their idols, and upon the tomb of their fathers. The smoke of ancient sacrifices ascended to Heaven amidst cries of joy and dances; all nature smiled at the public festivals and rejoicings.

The ancients had three distinct kinds of dances; the first, which they called Emmeline, was quite grave; the second, called Cordax, was of a gay character; and the third, called Sicinis, was a mixture both of gravity and gayety.

The Greeks called dancing Orchesis, and it is from that word the modern dancing takes the name of Orchesographia, or the art of dancing.

The Italians were the first to subject the arms, legs and body to certain rules, which regulation took place in the sixteenth century.

The art of dancing has been divided in two parts; the Theatrical and Cotillion, or parlor dancing, in other words, Dance de Societe. These two kinds of dancing have been arranged with so much care, that one must have no connection with the other; that is the reason why the Danceur de Societe must avoid all theatrical motions, because he would look ridiculous, and extravagant, when his deportment should be genteel, graceful and modest.

It is to dancing that young people are indebted for that elasticity of their limbs, that ease in the motion of their bodies, those polite and agreeable manners, and prepossessing graces, which are all so ornamental in society. This art certainly enhances, embellishes, and perfects the work of nature.

But how easily can this work of nature be spoiled by an instructor who knows nothing of the principles of the art? A good professor should inculcate the first rudiments and principles to his pupil with the greatest patience, he should be very careful that the theory should be well understood; then he may join the practice with it.

The advantages derived from the proper instructions are immense, such as to enter an assembly or a small circle with grace, salute the company with unaffection; to present or receive any thing; to sit down with an agreeable deportment; to do away awkward timidity mauvais honte, which denote weakness of character; to display a frank and open countenance, sweet and agreeable manners; to banish a foppish and sometimes insipid appearance. Such are the objects and benefits from the art of dancing, when conveyed by a proper instructor.

Bad Luck.

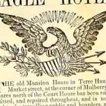
There are many persons among us, with whom fortune has dealt rather harshly, according to their own account, and who constantly bemoan their inauspicious fate, attributing all their misfortunes both real and imaginary, to "bad luck." To all such we commend the following article from Rev. H. W. Beecher's lectures to young men:

"I may here, as well as anywhere, impart the secret of good and bad luck. There are men who, supposing Providence to have an implacable spite against them, bemoan in the poverty of a wretched old age the misfortunes of their lives. Luck for ever ran against them and for others. One, with a good profession, lost his luck in the river, where he idled away his time in fishing when he should have been in his office. Another, with a good trade, perpetually burnt up his luck with his hot temper, which provoked his employers to leave him. Another, with lucrative business, lost his luck by amazing diligence at every thing else but his business. Another, who steadily followed his trade, as steadily followed his bottle. Another, who was honest and constant at his work, erred by perpetual misjudgments; he lacked discretion. Hunereds lose their luck endorsing; by sanguine speculations; by trusting fraudulent men; and by dishonest gains. A man never has good luck who has a bad wife. I never knew an early rising, hard working, prudent man, careful of his earnings, strictly honest, who complained of bad luck. A good character, good habits, and iron industry, are impregnable to the assaults of all the ill-luck fools ever dreamed of. But when I see a tatterdemalion, creeping out of a grocery, late in the afternoon, with his hands stuck in his pockets, the rim of his hat turned up and the crown knocked in, I know that he has had bad luck, for the worst of all luck is to be a sluggard, a knave, or a tipler."

It is a favorite notion with many that it is of little consequence what one's opinion's are, provided they are sincere; and the point is too frequently conceded by good people, through ignorance or disregard of its effects. In this manner, sincerity is often made a cloak for doctrines of the most radical and destructive character. Error of opinion or sentiment is a plague spot in the mind—a disease of greater or less malignity, as fatal in its tendency as disease of the body. Whether the notion be advanced in religion, morals, politics or any other matter, that error is entitled to our charity because it is unimportant, and that sincerity will sanctify all sorts of opinions if they are but sincerely held, is extremely corrupting in its influence and promotes licentiousness, not only in opinion but in practice.

HOTELS.

EAGLE HOTEL.



THE old Mansion House in Terre Haute, on Market street, at the corner of Mulberry, two squares north of the Court House has been entirely re-fitted, and repaired throughout, and is now offered to the travelling public and boarders, as one of the best Inns in the place, and will be known hereafter, as the

EAGLE HOTEL.

Conducted by the undersigned, who has spent several years of his life in the entertainment of the public—and lastly at Newport, the county seat of Vermillion, it shall be my entire object to render my guest, comfortable while under my roof, and for this end no pains or attention will be spared.

MY TABLE.

Will always be supplied with the best products that the country affords; prepared by the best cooks that can be had, and my

STABLE

Will be filled with porvender, and attended by the most careful ostlers.

Intending to devote my personal attention to the

EAGLE HOTEL,

it shall always be my aim to let no one depart dissatisfied.

The public are respectfully invited to call and see if we do not redeem every pledge we have here made. Respectfully,

DAVID W. CLOVER.

CITY HOTEL,

TERRE HAUTE, IND.

THE undersigned (late of the National Hotel,) respectfully informs his friends and the traveling public generally, that he has leased for a term of years, and has now open for the accommodation of TRAVELERS AND BOARDERS, the large, elegant and commodious new brick building adjoining the south-east corner of the Public Square, on

MARKET STREET:

Which, with a new addition lately made, and the handsome style in which the rooms are fitted up, with entirely new furniture and bedding, will enable him to accommodate his guests with as comfortable quarters as can be had at the best Hotels in the West.

He has in his employ a capable and experienced cook, and it shall be his aim to KEEP AS GOOD A TABLE as the markets of the West afford.

His Stable is large and commodious, and under the superintendence of careful ostlers, and is well supplied with grain and provender. With these advantages and a strict attention to business, he trusts he will merit and receive a share of the public patronage. Boarders can be accommodated on reasonable terms by the week, month, or year.

STOVE WAREHOUSE.

THE subscribers have on hand the largest and best selected stock of

STOVES,

of the best material, ever offered in this market. The stove to which we invite most especial attention is the justly celebrated

RESOR DOUBLE OVEN COOK STOVE.

Which is decidedly superior to any stove ever invented. Why? Because the heat has the shortest space to both oven and the whole width of the stove at once around the ovens; and will bake at once and equal in both, and by having two distinct and separate ovens in the same stove, different articles can be baked at the same time; which could not be done in a single oven; which tends to great economy in fuel, and at the same time all other culinary operations can be performed as well as on any other stove. Those in want of such an article would do well to call and examine prices and quality, before sending to a distance for an inferior article.

IMPORTANT TO PARENTS!!

WINER'S

CANADIAN VERMIFUGE

A CERTAIN REMEDY FOR WORMS.

THIS medicine is safe in its operation, and more easily administered than any other.

The greatest cause of death among children is to be attributed to Worms. They give rise to numerous diseases, and are the more fatal because the least suspected; we here enumerate the symptoms which indicate the existence of worms in the bowels, the lives of many children would no doubt be saved. Some of the symptoms are as follows: the countenance is of a pale or a leaden color, and suffused with occasional flushes, the eyes are heavy and dull, bad breath, itching in the nostrils, the sleep is disturbed, and patient often awakening in great fright, and is liable to starting and grinding the teeth, the appetite is irregular, being sometimes voracious and at other times feeble, occasional vomiting, &c.

Winer's Canadian Vermifuge has acquired a reputation far exceeding that of any other medicine of the kind, and is daily increasing in popularity; wherever it is known and used it is universally approved; it possesses properties which no other article of the kind does, it is more prompt and efficient in its action, and entirely free from ingredients which have any but a beneficial effect, the health of the patient being always improved even when no worms are discovered. Physicians prescribe it, and to use the language of one in high standing, who resides in Cleveland, Ohio, consider it "the only article of the kind he ever saw that was so uniform and prompt in expelling worms;" it may indeed be relied on with the utmost confidence, as it has never been known to fail, this is the reason why all who have used it will not use any other.

We have in our possession a number of certificates from physicians and others of the highest respectability, who will testify to its superior efficacy and recommend it as a never-failing remedy.

READ AND BE CONVINCED!

We, the undersigned, have frequently administered a medicine prepared by Mr. John Winer, of this town, designated "J. Winer's Canadian Vermifuge," and being fully satisfied with its efficacy, confidently recommend it as a safe and efficient remedy for the expulsion of worms from the intestinal canal.

Hamilton, C. W., Oct. 11, 1846.

NEW YORK, March 30, 1847.

Messrs. J. Winer & Co.—Sirs: My child of five years of age was for more than two years severely afflicted with worms, during which time we gave her different medicines recommended in such cases, but they produced no beneficial effects. I at length procured a bottle of your Canadian Vermifuge, and gave it to her, which caused her to pass a large number of worms; since then she has been in the enjoyment of perfect health. From my own experience I would recommend your Vermifuge as being the most safe and effectual remedy for worms now in use. Yours, truly,

C. G. SNETHEN, 30 Rivington st.

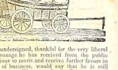
To Farmers and others Interested.



THE undersigned, thankful for the very liberal patronage he has received from the public and anxious to merit and receive further favors in his line of business, would say that he is still manufacturing Wagons, Carts, Drays and all kinds of heavy vehicles at short notice, and of the very best materials the country can furnish—both Timber and Iron—and his workmanship where known will speak for itself, and as it is the way he makes his living he cannot afford to do bad work and use bad materials. If he were a merchant, and could get work made up for Calicoes and Ribbons, without any hard knocks of his own, and could use puddle iron, such work could be sold cheap, and if such work be wanted (these hard times,) he can make and sell wagons at sixty dollars. His painting is not done in a gaudy style, (to draw the attention from a close inspection of parts more vital to a good article,) but plain and of the best red lead or any other plain color that may be wanted. He uses none but Shoenberger's best Juniata iron, and if his or some other good maker's name is not found stamped on the tire and other parts, beware of it. He warrants his wagons, materials, and workmanship, for two years, but not being a merchant wagon-maker, he is not prepared to barter off his work, but will give every facility he can to his friends, at his old stand, (a little east of the two spinning wheels.)
